

The First Book ascribed to Henoch, called GNOSIA

The first man Adam, created in 4190 B.C., told his great, great, great, great grandson Henoch in the 7th generation about the creation. And in the 36th century B.C., in B.C. 3507, Henoch wrote down what Adam told him firsthand in a book. The Hebrew title “Gnosia” means “Birth”, and “Gnosia” is “Gennisis” in Greek. This book is the record of the Beginning.
